Economy of a Stock Company. The economy of a stock company offored interesting instances here at the old Boston museum. Some of the actors had no intention of letting grass grow under their feet. One player was a barber by day; another, the beloved "Smithy." was a tailor-very properly, the tailor played fops. I had s particular friend who was a cab driver. Who shall point the finger of scorn that these had two strings to their bow? Their example might be for that matter, an honest cab driver, may be the noblest work of God. And well may the actor's study of man kind be multiplied a thousandfold by the scraping of innumerable chins or the driving of the accidental wayfarer from the cradle to the grave. Uncle Sam Intends to Build Lighthouse on Navassa Island, a "Ne Man's Land."

Recause the Fanama canal, when it comes into its own with the close of the European war, will refushion the trade routes of the world and lead an endless procession of vesnels through waters hitherto unfrequented, the Uni ted States government is preparing to go affeld and establish a lighthouse or Navassa island, a small rocky islet of the West Indies east of Haiti. The light will be unique, says the Washington Star, in that it will be the only one maintained by the United States alone on land not a part of its national domain. The government is not wholly without claim to the half mile of rock that constitutes the island, however, for a generation ago guano deposits were exploited by an American company, which found it a no man's land.

At that time the courts of the Uni ted States assumed jurisdiction when a murder was committed on the Iso lated patch of rock, and brought the murderer to book at Baltimore. When the need of a lighthouse on the island was felt, therefore, it was not deemed necessary to negotiate with any other country, although several countries have at times claimed ownership.

Congress appropriated $125,000 for the erection of the Navasta light and the federal lighthouse bureau will toon call for bids. The light will have s beam of 56,000 candle power that can be seen for 27 nautical miles.

There is one other lighthouse that is in a way comparable to Navassa. This is the light on Cape Spartel, the Morecean headland across from Gibraiar, which has been maintained since 1867 by Joint contributions from Great Britain, the United States, Morocco, Austria, Belgium, Spain, France, Italy, the Netherlands and Portugal.

Tomorrow!

There is work and high wages today, but the benefits will not appear until we see the results in the balances of tomorrow,

Plenty of pocket money may induce us to acquire extravagant habits, and to learn how to waste rather than save.

Will wages always be high? Whi I always be able to work? Will I continue to have the opportunity of today. These are questions of moment, and the man who neglects them may come to the time when he will find the "summer is over and the harvest is past."

Thrift is a virtue, but it does not mean meanness or stinginess. Real thrift makes a man charitable, and will enable him_to do good things for his family and the community. Try it.
